

I write to support Music Haven, which is doing important work educating those less fortunate.

Music has saved my family time and again. My great-grandmother, great-uncle, grandmother, mom, and three brothers all thrived thanks to music...sometimes under adverse circumstances...it was their saving grace in many respects.

One of my brothers, for example, has severe dyslexia, but is a brilliant musician...my mom recognized this and, thanks to her support, he has led the most wonderful life.

But for those without economic resources, such options are few and far between. Isn't it true science shows music makes all the difference educationally? Do you remember the movie Music of the Heart with Meryl Streep?

Thanks for listening...please support this important cause.
