

The CARES ACT in collaboration with Connecticut Humanities has been a lifeline to cultural organizations in Connecticut, like the Hyland House, during this extraordinarily difficult pandemic period, The combination of funds to keep the noses of such organizations barely above water with the personal in-depth knowledge of those organizations by Connecticut Humanities has been critical in keeping our treasured resources breathing.

We are so thankful to thoughtful legislators and executives, along with their skilled administrators, in keeping us alive and growing, just a bit, until we can bloom again.
