

I am opposed to changing our voting process to replicate the temporary "covid" measures put into place with the last general election. More than a third of American voters distrust the outcome of the election and more than half of voters have voiced concern for mail-in voter fraud.

Regardless, far too many people are upset with how the election was conducted. Videos and testimonies indicating boxes of sequentially numbered mail-in ballots appearing, unfair practices against poll observers... this cannot be condoned in Connecticut and every conceivable step must be taken to prevent it from ever happening again.

Election day is exactly that... one day and only one day. If you want to vote early, write your choices down and tape them to the refrigerator to remind you how you mean to vote when the time comes. Need to vote absentee, then follow the existing guidelines that were put into place to accommodate this. Above all, present legal evidence to support your identity and eligibility to exercise your privilege. Not a citizen, did not register in time, under age, dead - you must not attempt to vote and you should suffer grave consequences when you are caught cheating.

We are not Venezuela and will never be. Our freedoms and our voting are sacred. We must never take this lightly and never encourage any radical minds who wish to treat them otherwise.
