

My wife and I had to stand in sub-zero temperatures to renew our drivers license and once inside we had to produce our birth certificate, a military/government ID and three pieces of mail with our names on it. So, what is wrong with standing in line to vote. Is recent proposal a way to open a system to allow for voter fraud. Also, we stood in line last fall to cast our vote in the general election. We were very proud to stand with others wanting to have our/there vote count.

We are totally against no excuse absentee voting.

Thanks for considering our opinion.
