

SB 1024

It's local residents that know what's best for our community, not the state. This is a logical conclusion, to think that the state, which is remote from the community, would know what is best is foolish. The states interest is more politically driven and from that level of government assumptions are a part of the decision making. The state, as we know, has interests that conflict with the community but nevertheless the state wants the power of final decision. When the state is challenged by the federal government in similar matters it argues states rights, why then is it not fair, just and reasonable for the community to demand the same ? This bill is an intrusion upon communities that are content despite the states pressures, from time to time, to interfere in a negative way with our enjoyable and satisfying lifestyle. I'm certainly not in favor of this bill.
