

No to State-mandated zoning. Yes to Maintaining Local Control & Municipal Home Rule.

CT is the Constitution State. We've had 243 years of self-government. We've proven that we're far better suited to working together than under any centralized control.

Our residents have fought in every single war the United States has ever been involved in. CT government leaders have been many of our US government leaders over the past 243 years. Our towns and counties are some of the most unique in the United States. We shouldn't dismiss this.

Just as all 50 states are independent and stronger run locally, CT towns are independent and stronger run locally. Perfect, no. But we're one of the oldest most experienced governing States in the Union. We're also one of the thirteen most independent states in the Union. Once again, CT residents have proven that we're far better suited to working together than under any centralized control.
