Explanation

This bill makes changes to various statutes related to cannabis, driving offenses, rent issues, and sexual assault in the 4th degree and results in fiscal impacts described below.

Section 4 makes exceptions to when a person may be charged with excessive possession of cannabis which results in a potential savings for a reduction in incarceration¹ or probation² and a potential revenue loss

² The average marginal cost for supervision in the community is about $800 each year. Probation marginal cost is based on services provided by private providers and only includes costs that increase with each additional participant. This does not include a cost for additional supervision by a probation officer unless a new offense is anticipated to result in enough additional offenders to require additional probation officers.

Sections 5 and 6 add a condition to a 90-day minimum sentence for certain driving related offenses which results in a potential savings for a reduction in incarceration or probation and a potential revenue loss from fines (see footnotes 1 and 2 for more information).

Section 7 removes a violation that can be paid by mail and requires a court appearance for certain offenses related to illegal rent issues. This does not result in any fiscal impact to the state or municipalities. The court system disposes of over 250,000 cases annually and the number of cases is not anticipated to be great enough to need additional resources for this provision.

Sections 9 and 10 add to the definition of sexual assault in the 4th degree to include the sexual assault of a dead body which results in potential cost for incarceration or probation and a potential revenue gain from fines. On average, the marginal cost to the state for incarcerating an offender for the year is $2,500 while the average marginal cost for supervision in the community is less than $800 each year (see footnotes 1 and 2 for more information).

House "A" reduces the cost of the bill by removing the expansion of the victim notification. This removes the cost of $835,000 in FY 24 and $1,105,000 in FY 25 to the Judicial Department and the cost of $330,000 in FY 24 and $451,000 in FY 25 to the State Comptroller for fringe benefits.

The Out Years

The annualized ongoing fiscal impact identified above would continue into the future subject to the number of relevant offenses and violations.
